

Like everyone, there are things I am missing in lockdown and things I am making a point to enjoy.

My Lockdown Loves: the sleep-ins that come with not driving an hour into work, collaborating with colleagues through my university studies, checking in with students and parents during this time to offer support and working with staff that astound me each day, getting to more dance/fitness classes after work (because they are in my living room).

My Lockdown Loathes: university studies on Zoom after long days online, missing my team sports of soccer and beach volleyball, putting my neck/back out, due to cat relentlessly and awkwardly perching on me, any day I am working from home -please don't report her to OH&S, and of course – missing the whole McKinnon community!
